

The Sublime and Ridiculous.
"There is but a step from the sublime to the ridiculous." This is a maxim that is not greater than the poetical to the prosy. Somebody wrote some very pretty lines about "Love." Some other body borrowed the metre, and taking "Soap" for a theme, wrote some wicked verses in parody. Here are the two:

We are young,
And both are loving—
You love me,
And I love you—
Each, each other's
Faults reproving—
Some in me,
And some in you,
What is best
For us to do?

We want soap,
Both need scrubbing—
You soap me,
And I soap you—
Each, each other's
Rough sides scrubbing—
Some in me,
And some in you,
What is best
For us to do?

Life and love,
Continue loving—
You loving me,
I loving you—
Each, each other's
Faults reproving—
Some in me,
And some in you,
What is best
For us to do?

Planting a Grape-Vine.
Dig a hole three or four feet square and 2 feet deep. Throw in old bones, oyster shells, or stone to the depth of six inches, to make a thorough drainage. Bones are much the best if they can be obtained, as they feed the roots for years. On these lay old inverted roof. Cover eight inches deep with good garden soil, enriched, if necessary, as above prescribed. Compact this soil by treading it down firmly, but not violently. On the surface sprinkle an inch of rich soil, on which spread the roots as uniformly and as far from mutual contact as possible, and then cover them with another inch or two of the same. No manure should come in contact with the roots. Now fill up the hole with soil until the roots are covered with soil four to six inches, according to the size of the vine. A small plant should be placed near the surface than a larger one. Cover the ground with two inches of old hay or straw as a mulch, and the work is done. Thus planted, your vine will take good care of itself, so far as the roots are concerned, for as many years as you will live to enjoy its fruit.

Feeding Calves.
A friend of ours, says the Genesee Farmer, who has great success in raising calves on skimmed milk and "corn pudding," adopts the following method: He never lets a calf suck the cow, but teaches it to drink out of a pail. When the calf is three or four days old, he takes about a teacupful of corn meal and pours a pint of hot water over it—stirs it up and lets it scold for a few minutes. He then pours on three or four quarts of skimmed milk, or as much as the calf can drink. In the meantime he has had a piece of iron, heating in the stove. When red hot, he stirs the milk with it. This "scorching the milk" he considers of the greatest importance, when calves are fed on skimmed milk. It prevents it from curdling the calves. As the calf grows older, he increases the quantity of corn meal. When three weeks old, he gives a pint, at least, at each meal. The milk, at first, is only twelve hours from milking, but as the calf grows older, the milk may be allowed to stand 24 or 36 hours before skimming.

Crib-Biting.
Messrs. Editors.—If any of your subscribers can give me any information concerning horses which are termed wind-suckers or crib-biters, it will be thankfully received.

Cause.—Swimming of food and unhealthy stables, or indigestion.

Symptoms.—Placing the upper incisors against some support, and with some effort emitting a small portion of gas.

Treatment.—Place a lump of rock-salt in the manger; if that is not successful, add a lump of chalk. Then damp the food, and sprinkle magnesia upon it, and mingle a handful of ground oak bark with each feed of corn. Purify and ventilate the stable before these remedies are applied.

UNANIMITY FOR THE UNION.—Every State in New England has furnished its full quota of volunteers for the army. Every State in New England has signified its readiness to submit to the operation of the taxation and conscription laws. Every State in New England has by emphatic majorities declared for a support of the Government in a vigorous prosecution of the war to preserve the Republic. Now, hadn't the Copperheads better go on and carry out their plan of putting New England out of the Union?

A young lady in one of our "rural districts" was once escorted home from an evening party by a young man to whom she was not particularly partial. On taking his leave he remarked: "I guess I'll come and see you again next Sunday night." "Well, Bill Smith," replied the lady, "you can come as a friend but not as a fellow." Bill didn't go either way.

WE have heard of asking bread and receiving a stone, but a young gentleman may be considered as still worse treated when he asks for a young lady's hand and gets her father's foot.

"I stand upon the soil of freedom," cried a stump orator. "No," exclaimed his shoemaker, "you stand in a pair of boots that have never been paid for."

The latest good story told of President Lincoln, is this: A personal friend said to him, "Mr. President, do you really expect to end this war during your Administration?" The President, in reply—"Can't say, can't say, Sir." The Querist—"But, Mr. Lincoln, what do you mean to do?" The President—"Peg away, Sir; peg away. Keep pegging away!"

Ayer's Sarsaparilla
THE WORLD'S GREAT REMEDY
FOR
SCROFULA AND SCROFULOUS DISEASES.
From Every Editor, a well-known merchant of
"I have sold large quantities of your Sarsaparilla, but never yet a bottle which failed of the desired effect and full satisfaction to those who took it. As fast as our people try it, they agree there has been a cure. It has cured many cases of Eruptions, Pimples, Blisters, Pustules, Ulcers, Sores, and all Diseases of the Skin."
From Rev. Dr. Stratton, Bristol, England.
"I only do my duty to you and the public when I add my testimony to that you publish of the medicinal virtues of your Sarsaparilla. My daughter, aged ten, had an eruption on her face, eyes, and hair for years, which we were unable to cure until we tried your Sarsaparilla. She has been well for some months."
From Mrs. Jane E. Rice, a well-known and much-esteemed lady of Des Moines, Iowa, N. Y.
"My daughter has suffered for a year past with a scrofulous eruption, which was very troublesome. Nothing afforded her relief except your Sarsaparilla, which soon cured her. I am now well, and my daughter is also cured."
